The Company was delicate about preferring such a serious charge against either Mrs. Webb or her manager, and waited over a month before causing their arrest.

Mrs. Webb declares the tickets were bought already stamped from a scalper, and that she had no knowledge of any fraud.

Her offices were thoroughly searched last night, but no trace of the bogus stamp was found.

She is a middle-aged woman and reputed to be worth $500,000. When her husband, Dwight E. Webb, died, several years ago she continued the business years ago she continued the business with equal success.

For a long time the Company has been picking up forged tickets along the line, but have not been able to locate the guilty parties. A forged stamp was utilized in the process of beating the Company, and it was through a defect in this that the crime was first discovered, this that the crime was first discovered.
